Eagles Helping Ospreys...

Story behind the Headline...

Next time you are at the Aerie look up in the sky because Mr. Osprey is now home. He was released back to the skies around our Aerie on July 15th. He had a rough start but the rescue team at the Audubon Center for Birds of Prey did a great job of getting him healthy and teaching him all the skills he needs to live a long and happy life. Rescue Team Member, Devon, brought him back home from Maitland and warned us that Mr. Osprey may not behave as we expect because he may not want to leave the box. Mr. Osprey surprised (and quite frankly, startled) all of us on site for the release because he burst from that box like a racehorse out of the gate. He took a long inaugural flight and found his family again! He has a sibling and you can see the two of them flying in tandem around the Aerie. It's nice to see them return to their nest atop the cell phone tower. Thank you for everyone who helped rehabilitate Mr. Osprey and reunite him with his family!
